Prepare for Winter

-  Inspect your Roof for Loose, Damaged, or Missing Shingles to make sure your home is protected against rain, sleet, snow, or ice.
-  Inspect & Clean your gutters to remove clogs, repair damages, & insure proper drainage. Water backups can damage soffit & fascia.
-  Caulk around doors & windows to seal gaps. Add weather stripping as needed. NO outside light should be visible.
-  Call a Certified Chimney Sweep to clean & inspect your fireplace, chimney, & vents. This will prevent chimney fires & protect against carbon monoxide leaks in your home.
-  Restock Winter Storm Supplies.

Deck your Home...
(Before You Deck the Halls)

With Old Man Winter soon upon us, building an outdoor living space-such as a deck-might not seem like a particularly appealing proposition for many homeowners.

But building a deck can be a smart way for property owners to maintain or even improve their home's value. After all, it's less expensive than building an additional room but still enables homeowners to expand their living space.

"It's safe to say that a deck is one of the more cost-effective things you can do. Decks are really a high-return item."
- Robert Markovich- (home & yard editor for Consumer Reports)

Adding a wooden deck affordably increases the living area of your home, and can expect to recoup 72.8% of the cost when you sell your home. -Remodeling: Cost vs Value-

Having a deck built means you have a roofless sanctuary where family & friends can come for cookouts, drinks, or just hang out.
